NEWS SUMMARY.

—Gold at New York yesterday closed strong at 84.

—The New York cotton market closed lower. Sales 2100 bales at 23 1/2 cents.

—At Liverpool cotton closed dull. Sales 8000 bales; uplands 12 1/4; Orleans 12 1/2.

—Shipbuilding is reported quite active at San Francisco.

—The spring style of bonnets is described as "reduced in size and increased in price."

—A lady in New Hampshire, weighing four hundred pounds, has just married a man of one hundred and thirty pounds.

—A sea captain, just arrived at New Orleans, reports that when off Tortugas he steamed for two hours and a half through a tangled mass of snakes of all sizes and colors.

—There now seems to be only one of the wives of Brigham Young in the party of Mormons on their way east, the rest of the ladies being registered as daughters and nieces of the prophet.

—The highest mine in the world is reported to be the Potosi silver mine, in the Andes of Peru, which is 11,375 feet above the level of the sea. The deepest mine is the new Salt Works, a salt mine in Westphalia, which is 2050 feet below the surface of the ocean. It is further stated that the average depth of the coal mines of Great Britain greatly exceeds that of a like number of any other kind of mines in the world.

—The high Peaks in Oregon, it is reported have commenced to emit smoke, and the inhabitants anticipate earthquakes or some other internal commotions. Mount Hood 13,000 feet high, Mount Jefferson 11,000 feet, and the Three Sisters, 11,000 feet, which are mentioned as exhibiting signs of activity, are extinct volcanoes, but Mount Hood has been in a state of eruption, according to the traditional history of the Indians.

—A dying pickpocket confessed to a Catholic priest, a few days ago, the theft of a pocket-book from a lady in a Washington hotel, committed in 1865. The lady was at the time a guest of Secretary McCulloch, and a note in the wallet gave the thief the address. He insisted upon making restitution of the money taken, seventy-five dollars in amount, and the sum was sent by the priest from a remote spot in the West to Mr. McCulloch, and forwarded by him to the owner in Chicago.

—In the redistribution of Congressmen after the census, next year, the East will lose and the West will gain a great number of representatives. After 1870, the West, if united, will control the legislation of the country, and control the national conventions for nominating Presidential candidates. The West is equally entitled to this superior weight now; but it cannot receive the benefit of its wonderful growth since 1860 until after the ten years are fully up, when, by a sudden stride or leap, it will make a great advance in political influence.

—Mayor Hall, of New York, has published a letter, addressed "To the Press of the United States," in which he says: "I beg to caution strangers against New York circulars and prospectuses of tickets, shares and chances, in co-operative unions or gift enterprises or dollar stores, or in any other possible scheme whereby property or the value promised is greater than the price asked to be paid. Every such advertisement scheme is necessarily a swindle and false pretence. Do not and cannot possibly exist any such schemes in this city. Country newspapers which add them simply add the swindle."

—A Paris letter writer on the fashions says: "The latest mode is a costume with three skirts. The first trains behind for home wear, and is gathered up for walking; it is decorated with a series of narrow flounces, trimmed or not trimmed as you will; the second jupe reaches to the knee, furrowed like the first, and gathered up here and there by bows; the third which falls but little below the waist, gives to the costume the appearance of a skirt with basquine, and is intended to be worn for street attire without the addition of any wrapping. As many yards of material as can be gathered and puckered up and flounced over the petticoat, so much the better for the fashion and for the mantua-maker."

—The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Gazette writes: "General Sherman will have some trouble with the house, his enthusiastic admirers gave him. The house, supposed to have been purchased, is the one formerly occupied by General Grant, and the history of the sale is this: About the first of February General Grant put the property in the hands of a well known real estate firm for the purpose of sale. On the sixth of February it was sold to Bayles J. Bowen and a memorandum of agreement made, in which it was stipulated that forty thousand dollars was the price to be paid for the property, one thousand dollars down on the signing of the agreement, nine thousand dollars cash upon the delivery of the deed and possession of the premises, and thirty thousand dollars in ten years thereafter, with interest at six per cent, payable semi-annually. The thirty thousand dollars were to be covered by a promissory note secured by a deed of trust on the property. It was also agreed that Bowen should insure to the amount of fifteen thousand dollars, and that he should have possession on or before the 10th March. This memorandum of agreement was attached to a receipt for one thousand dollars, which receipt is signed by Kibbourn & Latta, General Grant's agents, and also a note written and signed by General Grant himself, in relation to the furnaces, gas fixtures, &c. It is understood that the General had the deed prepared and everything arranged for the transfer, when he met a very unexpected and uncomfortable obstacle in the refusal of Mrs. Grant to give her consent to the transfer. She probably thought the terms unsatisfactory, and positively refused to sign the deed. Meantime, the Sherman enthusiasts came along and made overtures for the purchase of Grant property for Sherman, and President Grant, ignoring the agreement with Bowen, sells the house for nearly double the price of the original contract. Bowen is furious and demands to know why he has been treated so, and holds the written agreement above mentioned as a rod over President Grant's head in a very threatening way. There need be no surprise if a suit for twenty thousand dollars damages is entered on the docket, or long, in which President Grant will be defendant and Bayles J. Bowen prosecutor. An effort has been made to have Bowen make a quit claim by the repayment of the one thousand dollars; but he demands ten thousand dollars advance on the price paid, which he alleges he was offered for the property. This, of course, our worthy President does not want to pay, and the suit is imminent."

Senator Sprague on the War Path.

When, some months ago, Senator Sprague, of Rhode Island, came down to South Carolina, bought the Columbia canal and declared that he was willing to lead the revolution which must take place in cotton spinning in America, it was not dreamed that he would be the first Republican senator to point out the flaws in the brazen armor of his party, or that he would, in his place in the United States Senate, declare that the subversion of this government was in more danger from a body constituted as the Senate than from any other source. And yet this, and more, Senator Sprague has done. With a boldness which we cannot but admire, he has defied without betraying his party, and is known to-day as a Republican whose devotion to the Union is unquestioned, but who has been able at last to see the corruptions, the blunders and the crimes of Radicalism, and, seeing, has the courage to denounce them.

At the first swing of the tomahawk, he made a sensation by declaring that there were too many lawyers in the government for the public good. Of the sixty-six members of the Senate, forty-five were lawyers and five others had received a legal education. There was a surfeit of legal lore, and the Rhode Island senator seemed to wish that he were a second Czar Peter so that he might put a speedy end to the quibbling and special pleading which now take the place of statecraft. And this was but the beginning; for in regard to slavery he made this remarkable admission:

"The mainprings of our prosperity had been slavery and foreign immigration. 'The former had stimulated the growth of cotton and made it an American monopoly, and so had built up the manufacturing and commercial and railroad interest of the North, and these had, in turn, invited and grown upon foreign immigration.'"

It was, however, in reviewing the consequences of the war that Senator Sprague spoke most emphatically and pointedly. He said:

"I, for one, in looking back upon the past history of this country—and the people, whatever philosophers may say, will come to the same conclusion—have come to believe that our war has not been won for the liberties of any class of people; 'your war that you have just partially concluded has had no high, virtuous principle at the bottom of it. It has had simple 'contentions for power, for place, and for 'occupation, commencing here in this body, and penetrating throughout the country.'"

And again:

"You have, by the contentions beginning here, through the ambition of one class of men, built up two great, two powerful bodies of people; and you have built them 'up for a purpose, and they might unite with your own ambitious ends for office, and place, and power; and you have gone from here to your respective peoples, both 'North and South, in order to create great opportunities, that you might go on in that way prospering in employment and in office."

"You fight against titles and aristocracy. 'There never were titles and aristocracy that exercised the complete 'power and jurisdiction over everything 'that concerned a people that is concentrated in this body to-day."

"Sir, all have studied the results of the 'Inquisition, commencing with the fourth 'century, and ending in this. Obnoxious 'and cruel as the result of that action suggests itself to every man's mind, I do not believe that its action caused more anxiety 'more trouble, more terror, than the acts 'of Congress applied to the people during 'the war, both North and South, and since 'the war has ended."

To these words we could add but little; for they repeat what has been said in the South a thousand times, in regard to the war itself and the political party which has ruled the country during the last nine years. And if any proof were needed of the excesses of party domination, it is found in the fact that a Republican senator repudiates and condemns them from Alpha to Omega, from first to last.

The sound sense of which Senator Sprague gave evidence in his visit to the South, is now guiding his action as a legislator. As a man of large means, as a manufacturer interested in the prosperity of the whole country, he has desired to see the expenses of the government reduced, its revenues honestly collected, and its disbursements so arranged as to give ease to the money market, not for speculative purposes, but for business and investment. There is but one barrier in the way, and that is that intolerant, selfish, malignant Radicalism, against which he has raised his voice. While the senatorial and representative rings control legislation, the masses must and will suffer. We have no faith in half cures; but Senator Sprague may, if he perseveres, shame his party into some show of justice and generosity.

Whatever the result, we believe that the condemnation of Radicalism which Senator Sprague has pronounced, will be concurred in and sustained by the people in general; and we of the South may, in any event, find some consolation in the fact that our day of absolutism must have come when a New England Republican declares that slavery was the mainpring of American prosperity; that in the North there was no virtuous principle at the bottom of the war; that the acts of Congress applied to the people during the war, both North and South, and since the war has ended, caused as much anxiety, trouble and terror as the famous Inquisition; and that the war was not won for the liberties of any class of people.

Wilmington and the South Carolina Railroad.

We have read with great pleasure a leading article in the Wilmington Journal of Tuesday last, in which it is announced, by authority, that the roads connecting at Kingville will accept the proposition of the South Carolina Railroad Company in regard to through freight connections.

In the beginning of the "little controversy" to which the Journal refers, we were convinced that the South Carolina Railroad had thrown no obstacle in the way of the Wilmington roads. There was evidently, however, a serious misunderstanding, and we were gratified to be able to say, in reply to the remarks of the Journal, that the South Carolina Railroad had always been willing, and was still willing, to take Kingville freights at the Charleston rates, or to pro rata with the Wilmington route if the rates via Wilmington were made 20 per cent. higher than the rates via Charleston. This was the standing offer, and the Journal will allow us to say, that as there have been hitherto no regular through freight arrangements at Kingville, the impediments of which it speaks cannot, in justice, be charged to the South Carolina Railroad. A verbal agreement is not sufficient in a matter which involves the safe and economical operation of a long line of railroad, and we undertake to say that there will be no reasonable cause for dissatisfaction if the Wilmington roads will make a formal and permanent agreement as they now propose to do. The contract once made, we are sure that it will be adhered to in good faith by all parties; and the confidence which we feel in the fair dealing of the Wilmington roads will certainly be met by a similar confidence, on the part of the Journal, in the fair dealing of the South Carolina Company. We are not disposed to admit that either of the parties to the agreement will fail to do any reasonable thing for facilitating the transaction of business, and shall not have another word to say upon the subject, unless the public good makes it absolutely necessary.

And as we have bared this railroad hatchet, we may be permitted to thank the Journal for the candid courtesy with which it has discussed a rather knotty question, and to express our hearty good wishes for the prosperity of the City of Wilmington. We do not forget Charleston, nor shall we be one jot less earnest in our efforts to keep her abreast of her rivals. But we remember that Wilmington is a Southern city as Charleston is; and we know that in these troublous days we should stand, like Highlanders, shoulder to shoulder; and that, while we fight each man for himself, there shall be the South for us all.
